

METERING SOLUTIONS

Matrix Energy Solutions can provide solutions to your energy monitoring requirements using both portable and permanently installed systems. We are able to specify products from the leading UK and European meter manufacturers to suit all applications, and offer a complete solution from start to finish including free surveys, installation, commissioning and validation of meter readings.

The growing threats from global warming and escalating energy and utility costs place a new emphasis on the need for better management of energy consumption whether this be in commercial or industrial sector buildings.

The advances in metering and communications technology mean that cost effective solution are now available to suit all applications and budgets. New meters, or interfaces to existing meters, can be installed and interfaced with either "on-site" or our Hosted aM&T management systems using a variety of technologies including fixed cabling, GSM, PSTN, TCP/IP, and low powered radio communication methods

All of the products we use are selected based on their simplicity of set-up and use, proven reliability and cost-effective performance. Rapid paybacks on investment can be achieved with our ongoing assistance and specialised energy knowledge and experience.

Sub Metering is recognised as being the first and most important step towards effective and efficient energy management.
